Fall 2014 Events

Lecture/Discussion: Lynn M. Paltrow, Executive Director of National Advocates for Pregnant Women
Tuesday October 7, 4:00-5:30 p.m., Alumni Center (SEHHP), 86 Wentworth Street
Lynn M. Paltrow, J.D. and Executive Director of NAPW, combines legal advocacy, public education, grassroots and national organizing, research, and policy work to secure the human and civil rights and health and welfare of all women. At this event, Ms. Paltrow will discuss legal trends in reproductive rights, reproductive justice, and the potential impact of state-based legislative efforts that seek to limit reproductive rights. Ms. Paltrow’s appearance is supported by the New Morning Foundation Tell Them Initiative www.tellthemsc.org. For more information: www.advocatesforpregnantwomen.org.

Discussion: Get to Know WGST
Tuesday October 28, 12:00 noon-1:00 p.m., Stern Center 201
Join WGST students and faculty for a discussion about the foundation course for the major and minor, WGST 200. We will talk about student opportunities for internships, teaching assistantships, and the course’s signature activism project. We also are planning a similar Get to Know WGST event next semester that will look at other courses in the WGST curriculum. For more information: Dr. David Moscowitz (moscowitzd@cofc.edu).

Lecture: “Sex Workers Unite: A History of the Movement from Stonewall to Slutwalk”
Wednesday November 19, 7:00-8:30 p.m., Room 252 Robert Scott Small
An activist and historian, Dr. Melinda Chateauvert has written about and taught courses on community organizing, civil rights, social justice, and gender and sexuality. For more information: Dr. Lisa Ross (RossL@cofc.edu).

~~~

Socialize: Food with Feminists
Mondays 2-4 p.m., WGST Office (7 College Way Room 100)
Come by our office and socialize with other WGST students, faculty, and friends. For more information: call the WGST office, 953-2280.

WGST also sponsors a Faculty Reading Group
For more information: Dr. Cassie Thomas (ThomasC@cofc.edu).

For more information about the Women’s and Gender Studies Program, contact Dr. David Moscowitz at moscowitzd@cofc.edu or visit us at 7 College Way (ground floor).